Creative director and brand strategist with 10+ years building brand systems that scale and campaigns that convert across fintech, sports and entertainment, e-commerce, and global events. My approach starts at the audience level: what people on the other end actually know, need, and respond to. A CS degree from NYU means I think in systems first, and Gen AI is embedded from strategy and conceiving through production and performance, which means faster output without the shortcuts showing.
